ONCE MORE WE SAY.

A great deal has been said about the knocker, the infernal fiend in whose bosom the rank seeds of pessimism have been so deeply planted that his very breath becomes obnoxious and injurious to the community wherein he exists; whose nature is tear down and destroy as fast as others build up. Yet still there is another, who viewed from a broad perspective, is not much better and who indiscriminately strikes down the beautiful fabrication of home building and prosperity attempted by his fellowmen. He is the man who cheaply seeks far away for bargains, in bartering with his shekels, patronizes stores in distant cities in preference to traders in his home town, sends his money broadcast to points from which his community never can expect any return compensation, and receives a cheap rate, hand-me-down textile, a misfit, an eye-sore, a freak of manufacture and degeneracy of material, and congratulates himself that he has made the saving of a few paltry pennies.

Would he stop and consider the advantages that would eventually accrue to himself and fellows were he to keep his money in circulation in his own home town, the blessings of prosperity and plenty emanating from the increased business within the radius of his own home; giving employment to others who are idle; increasing the valuation of his reality and his neighbors, and turning the low ebb tide of hard times and failures into a grand and mighty flow of prosperity, success and fruitfulness, he must derive but one conclusion and that if the old adage, "A penny wise and a pound foolish."

Too long has Nevada, which should be the richest and wealthiest among her sister states, who has produced so much and received so little, been the victim of this vicious, pernicious practice. Even from the days of the early Comstock's glory has she given up her wealth in millions which has poured out into the channels of trade of an unthankful, ungrateful world while the home builder within her borders has been most shamefully and sinfully neglected.

It is never too late to turn over a new leaf or to open up a new account and while many stand around wringing their hands and loudly braying about hard times, let them open accounts with their home dealers, keep the money in circulation within the confines of their own borders and immediately will they experience the warm glow of prosperity on every hand.

DEALING WITH CONDITIONS.

A New York court the other day sustained the law which puts a limit of $150,000,000 upon the amount of new business which a life insurance company may write within a year. This law resulted from the famous life insurance disclosures of 1905. The day before, another New York court dismissed the indictments against two distinguished insurance chieftains. The indictments, also, resulted from the 1905 disclosures.

Some people naturally are much disappointed because no eminent life insurance man has gone to jail. They don't see much good in discovering wrongdoing unless, figuratively speaking, you are going to take the wrongdoer out and break his back. Merely to stop the wrongdoing appears a lame and feeble conclusion.

We are reminded of this by the remark recently attributed to a supposedly well-informed and mentally well-balanced man. He thought graft was our besetting national sin, and the country ought to stop it by hanging a dozen prominent grafters—the dozen to be selected, perhaps, by popular vote. The old method of dealing with almost any annoying condition was to hang or imprison the first person directly connected with it who came to hand; but it is now quite certain that no annoying condition was ever remedied by that method. A good deal of big business iniquity has been uncovered the last five years for which no business man has been legally punished; but that fact need make nobody unhappy.

Dealing with the condition is often more difficult than jumping on the individual; but, in the long run, it is much more helpful to the community at large.—Saturday Evening Post.

"No woman is perfect," says Bernard Shaw. Bernard must have been gazing at a window display of switches, pads and other apparatus that goes to make up the present-day woman.

A Chicago suffragist says she is the mother of ten children. Still it may be poor pa who has to tuck them in bed at night.

FOLLOW THE CROWD TO THE BALL GROUND

EVERYBODY IS INVITED TO PARTICIPATE IN TODAY'S SPORT.

This morning all the members of the volunteer fire department, together with numerous fans, will meet at the ball grounds at 9 o'clock and will devote the day to grading the diamond. Yesterday the grounds were plowed by Hiram Green and today teams will be donated by the Wittenberg Warehouse company, the Tonopah Mining company, S. S. May and various others and scrapers will be used to convey the dirt from the field.

Refreshments will be provided for the boys when they acquire a thirst and it is thought that at the end of the day's labors the field will be in a condition that will enable the players during the coming games to put up what is termed as "fast ball."

Everybody should turn out and help the boys. If you cannot come send a pick or a shovel.

HYDRAULIC SECURES GOLD AT ROUND MT.

ONE GIANT WORKING ON BLUE-JACKET PROPERTY WITH GOOD RESULTS.

The big hydraulic giant which is working the placer on the Blue-Jacket property at Round Mountain continues to wash excellent gold values out of the dirt.

Chester O. Olive is now in charge of operations and spends the greater part of his time on the ground. The ground is now washed clean to bed rock well up to the foot of the slope to the eastward approaching the placer leases being worked by Gibson and Shubby. As has been the case up to the present time, the auriferous soil continues to get richer as the hill is neared and it would be

STOCK MARKET

Tonopah stocks closed some what stronger on yesterday's board. Nearly all of the local securities advanced from 1 to 5 points. Extension was the feature and after taking a drop on Friday's market, climbed up 5 yesterday at the closing. Midway was next with a gain of 2 marked against it. Montana and Belmont each gained 1. The only loser for the day was West End, which dropped a point.

Booth of Goldfield, which has been see-sawing up and down took the customary rise of a point. Goldfield Consolidated and Fraction each lost 2 1/2 points.

DANIELS TALKS ABOUT WONDER

DECLARES LOW-GRADE CAMP HAS NO NEED FOR NEWSPAPER EXAGGERATION.

C. M. Daniels of the Nevada Wonder Mining Company is stopping at the Riverside hotel and will be in the city for several weeks. He is here on business connected with the company.

In conversation with him yesterday he says that Wonder is looking good and will be a great low-grade camp for a long period of years. Mr. Daniels says that a great deal of harm has been done the camp by "boosting" newspapers misrepresenting facts. In one instance he mentioned to a newspaper man that they had 10 feet of $58 rock. The paper printed "10 feet of $580 rock." When he went back East, his friends and associates wanted to know about the report. It took some minutes to explain it.

"The simple truth about Wonder is all that we want told. It is not a high-grade camp. There is worlds of low-grade ore and the rock that we are now taking out is being dumped on the mountain side and as soon as we put our mill in, we can reduce it for less than $10. At the present time it costs $35 to send a ton of rock out and have it smelted. So you see it really takes high-grade ore to make it pay."—Journal.

DR. ROLLER LOSES.

CHICAGO, April 24.—Dr. Roller, the Seattle heavyweight wrestler, failed to throw Jim Galvin, the New York grappler, twice in twenty minutes last night, and lost the match. Roller succeeded in gaining one fall in 16 minutes and 25 seconds, with a crotch hold and a wrist lock, but could not pin Galvin's shoulders to the mat in the remaining time.

no matter for surprise if some rich stringers were encountered at any time when the bedrock is swept clear by brooms, which is always done as soon as the play of water ceases before the clean-ups.
